

Classic (Java) vs. Flash Analytics

The following table compares the classic java web client with the new flash client. The comparison below is correct for NovaView v6.2, May 2010

Feature	Classic (Java) Analytics	Flash Analytics
Browse views in public and private books	V	V
Save views and manage books	V	V
New view wizard	V	V
Interactive grid, various data display modes	V	V
Drill up/down and direct expand to level	V	V
Slice & dice, nesting and multiple slicing	V	V
Dimension selector	V	V
Instant charting with chart selection	V	V
Chart types, chart legend, chart rotation	V	V
Chart advanced options	V	V
Bubble, scatter and pareto charts	-	V
Instant NonEmpty dimension member filter	-	V
Data sorting	V	V
Data ranking	V	partial
Calculations (formulas)	V	V
Parameters UI, parameterized analytics	V	V
MDX calculations	V	V
Exceptions (all types)	V	viewer mode*
Advanced filtering/ranking (value filters)	V	viewer mode*
Export to PDF and Excel	V	V
Send view by mail	V	V
Printing	V	via PDF only
Member selection	V	simple mode
Member search	partial	V
Instant, Google-like cube search	-	V
Interactive title	-	V
Animations	-	V
Instant help (interactive)	-	V
Help	V	V
API for embedding, control and events	V	V
Integration with NovaView Dashboard	V	V
Integration with MS SharePoint (Webpart)	V	V
Universal Data Connector	V	V
PowerPivot compatible	V	V
Data and report security	V	V
Large data amounts scalability	V	V
Smart Report	V	-
Advanced analytical features such as grouping	V	-
Advanced data properties such as NonEmpty	V	V
Skins and visual customizations	V	V

* viewer mode – user can see the feature in a view but has no interface to add or modify it